

Message from the President

I am very pleased to announce that we have a theme for the joint conference with North Carolina:

A SPLENDID COMBINATION!!: North Carolina Library Association Centennial Conference & Southeastern Library Association Biennial Conference

It will be held November 9-13, 2004, at the Charlotte Convention Center. The Westin Charlotte Hotel will provide housing and some meeting space for the conference. The Westin is across the street from the convention center so the conference location is almost ideal.

During the week before Thanksgiving, Judith Gibbons, SELA Vice-President-President-Elect; Mark Pumphrey, SELA Conference Committee Co-chair; and I had very productive meetings with NCLA President Pauletta Bracy, NCLA's SELA representative John Via, NCLA's ALA Councilor Vanessa Work Ramseur, and NCLA and SELA members from Charlotte. We met with representatives of the hotel and the convention center to discuss services and meeting spaces available at each site.

The Charlotte Convention Center has reserved space to allow the exhibits, general sessions, and individual breakout sessions to be held there. In addition to those spaces, there are several locations within the center where participants will be able to sit down during breaks or meet officially or unofficially with colleagues and friends. I encourage everyone to look at the convention center's web site to see more details about the facilities <<http://www.charlottecvb.org/>>. A new train trolley is planned that will go from the hotel to the convention center and other locations in the city. A highway trolley system is also available for moving around the city. John Via emphasized the "heavenly beds" at the Westin Charlotte Hotel when we were planning our meeting. They certainly lived up to his description! Judith, Pauletta, and I had the opportunity to test them. I think they'd agree that you have a lot to which to look forward as you make plans to attend the conference. The hotel has only been open a few months, and we were impressed by the service, the food, and the accommodations. Judith and I sampled local restaurants, including some within a block of the hotel, and we were pleased with both the food and the service.

There are a couple of attractions across the street from the convention center that appealed to my librarian's heart. The Public Library of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County has a branch in the Wachovia headquarters building called the Check It Outlet. Library patrons can check out books there and pick up books delivered from other branches. The branch is housed in a retail space overlooking The Green, a delightful new park with literary affiliations that should definitely be on everyone's "must see" list. Since they're so close to the convention center they will be nice places to take a break between conference events.

Judith and Mark are working closely with our North Carolina colleagues to develop programs and other conference related events that will truly live up to the theme of the conference. I encourage anyone interested in presenting a program to contact Judith or Mark. Information about the conference will be maintained on the NCLA web site at <<http://www.nclaonline.org/>> so keep checking for the latest update.

Alabama

Alabama Library Association Meets Campaign Goal

From the initial gift of $6,000 from Dr. Annabel Stephens, Associate Professor and Coordinator of ALLA, the Centennial Scholarship Campaign has met its $20,000 Goal. The Alabama Library Association (ALLA) initiated a 5-year Centennial Scholarship Campaign in 1999 under the leadership of former ALLA President Dr. Janice Franklin, to raise $20,000 for the Scholarship and Loan Fund in celebration of the Association Centennial year in 2004. The Association achieved this goal in November and continues to receive contributions. The fund will surpass the goal when the Campaign Committee officially presents the ALLA Centennial Memorial Scholarship at the Centennial Convention in Montgomery, April 20-23, 2004. The scholarship will be awarded annually to residents of Alabama pursuing library and information studies or classes in school library media. It will not be restricted to study in Alabama. The scholarship will be a minimum amount of $500 with additional money available up to $1,000 based on contributions to the Scholarship Fund. Application materials will come from the Association Scholarship and Loan Board. For more information about the Campaign, go to the ALLA Centennial Campaign Committee link on the ALLA website <http://allanet.org/www/centcom.htm>

Upcoming Annual Conference

The Alabama Library Association will celebrate 100 years of library service in Alabama, April 20-23, 2004 at the Montgomery Civic Center, Montgomery, AL. Reservations cut-off date is March 20, 2004. Theme: "The Alabama Library Association: A Living Legacy-- Celebrates 100 Years of Service With Alabama Libraries". For more information go to <http://allanet.org/www/convention.htm>

Arkansas

Presidential Library Exhibit

The Clinton Presidential Library, currently under construction, presented its third preview exhibit from November 24, 2003 through January 3, 2004, in the Cox Creative Center in Little Rock. The Cox Creative Center, a part of the Central Arkansas Library System's main campus, and the Clinton Presidential Center are both located in Little Rock's River Market District. The preview exhibit is titled, "America Presents: Books and Gifts from the Clinton Presidency." The exhibit featured gifts from each of the 50 states, inscribed books presented to the Clintons from authors, political figures and celebrities, as well as a special section on Clinton's Elvis Presley collection. The theme of the exhibit last year was titled, "Holidays in the White House." Over 12,800 persons visited the exhibit, which included a look at White House celebrations of Christmas, Hanukah, Ramadan, and Kwanza during the Clinton years. Visitors to the exhibit received a complimentary commemorative former First Cat "Socks", and a holiday card.

Award Winners Announced

Winners were recently announced for the 2003 Charlie May Simon Children's Book Award and the 2003 Arkansas Diamond Primary Book Award. The Arkansas State Library, Arkansas Department of Education, and the Arkansas Reading Association sponsored the annual awards. Children in grades four through six voted on the Simon Award. Children in kindergarten through grade three voted on the Diamond Award. Because of Winn-Dixie was the winner of the Simon Award; A Year down Yonder by Richard Peck was named an honor book. Salt in His Shoes: Michael Jordan in Pursuit of a Dream was the winner of the Diamond Award; Kiss the Cow was named an honor book.

Grand Opening Celebrated

The Saline County Public Library in Benton, Arkansas, held a grand opening for its new library building in mid-August. Principal speaker was Jack Mulkey, Arkansas state librarian. One of the features on the program was the jazz classic "At Last," included because, according to Director Julie Hart, "We've waited a long time for this."

Florida

Oral History Program

The University of South Florida Oral History Program, an initiative focused on recording and preserving memories of historic Hillsborough County, has amassed more than 100 oral histories on topics ranging from politics and culture to the university's establishment. The program continues to interview people prominent in Florida political life, social justice, the history of USF, and Tampa Bay's economic development. Oral histories are available on VHS recordings at the USF Tampa Library Media Resources Collection, or via the Internet, and include notable interviews with US Congressman Sam Gibbons; the late Florida civil rights leader Robert W. Saunders, Sr.; former USF President, Betty Castor; and Tampa Mayor, Pam Lori.

USF offers Scholarships

University of South Florida School of Library and Information Science has received an IMLS (Institute of Museum and Library Services) grant to provide scholarships for 28 students who will begin an enhanced distance MLIS program in Summer 2004 and complete the program no later than Summer 2006. Additional information and downloadable applications are now available at <http://chuma.cas.usf.edu/~swohlmut/IMLS/IMLSgrant.html>

Renovated and Expanded Collier City Learning Library Opened December 6

The rededication grand opening celebration for the expanded and renovated Collier City Learning Library (pictured below) was held Saturday, December 6 at the library in Pompano Beach, FL. The $1.5 million renovation and expansion of the library is a cooperative project of the Broward County Board of County Commissioners, the Broward Public Library Foundation, Jim and Jan Moran, JM Family Enterprises, and Southeast Toyota Distributors. The project increased the library's space from 9,284 to 16,584 square feet and will provide additional areas for programs designed for children, teens and adults, more meeting rooms and a computer lab. The library serves approximately 150 children who are enrolled in daily programs and 500 other local residents, many of whom possess a strong sense of community and neighborhood pride.

University of South Florida 50th Anniversary Pictorial History

The Florida Studies Center, a USF Libraries department serving to promote Arts and Humanities Education on Florida, is creating a commemorative pictorial history for USF's 50th anniversary. Planned for release in early 2006, the book will involve personnel from all USF campuses. University constituents, past and present, are invited to offer written and pictorial items for possible inclusion. As progress on the book continues, the publicity regarding the collected stories has brought increased awareness to and appreciation for USF's rich history. As a result, Special Collections has received a number of new collections including several dozen photographs and a wide assortment of past university publications and graphic design work. For more information go to <http://www.lib.usf.edu/flasc/>

New Tamarac Branch Library Opened in October

The new $6.4 million Tamarac Branch Library (pictured below) opened on October 22, the latest addition to the Broward County (FL) Library system funded by the 1999 library bond issue. More than 300 enthusiastic people attended the dedication ceremony. The library is a one-story, 30,000 square foot building constructed on four acres. The facility has a collection of 48,000 items, 50 computers for public use, a 100-seat multi-purpose room, a conference room, a 24-seat computer lab, a story room for children's programs, three tutoring rooms and a quiet study room. Public art and design pieces, created by artist Raymond Olivero, are fresco glass and ceramic tile murals called "Moment in Tamarac: From Whence We Come" and "Moment in Tamarac: To Whence We Go."

Georgia

LaGrange College Plans New Library

Plans are underway for a new library for LaGrange College. Jay Lucker, former director of the M.I.T. library and consultant on numerous academic libraries, served as a consultant and wrote the building program. The library committee has been working closely with Jeff Floyd of the Alpha Group regarding site and cost issues. Following the Board of Trustees meeting in October it was expected that requests for proposals would go out to architectural firms. The library is one of several new buildings on the LaGrange College Campus. Loren Pinkerman is the Director of the LaGrange College Library.

Blind and Visually Impaired Library Users Gain Access to Online Catalog

Blind and visually impaired library users in Georgia now have access to an Online Public Access Catalog (OPAC). This OPAC technology allows library users to search an online library catalog for talking books (specially recorded books on tape for the visually impaired), Braille materials and descriptive videos that match their interests. Library users may then place an order for the materials they select and have them mailed to their residence free of charge. The online catalog is compatible with adaptive technology and screen reading software so that blind or visually impaired library users can navigate and use the online catalog with ease. The online catalog is a service of the Georgia Library for Accessible Services (GLASS), a division of the Georgia Public Library Service. GLASS is the library for blind, visually impaired and physically disabled Georgians. The online catalog can be accessed at www.klas.com/glass.

Georgia Public Library Receives AIA/ALA Library Buildings Award

Clayton County Library System's Riverdale Branch Library is featured in the April 2003 issue of American Libraries as one of seven winners of the AIA/ALA Library Buildings Award. Co-sponsored since 1963 by the American Institute of Architects and the American Library Association's Library Administration and Management Association, the biennial program recognizes excellence in library architectural design and planning. The award highlights library buildings that meet the needs of local communities, invite and welcome the community to use and enjoy the library, and communicate the importance of libraries in the life of communities. The recipients of the 2003 awards were formally recognized in June at the 2003 ALA Annual Conference in Toronto. The Riverdale Branch Library, dedicated in honor of Lee B. Philmon, includes unique light fixtures, expansive skylights and an outdoor reading garden. The Atlanta firm Mack Scogin Merrill

Elam Architects (formerly Scogin Elam and Bray) designed the library. They worked around challenges such as a difficult site, the need for a low-maintenance facility and a limited budget. They met these challenges in an award-winning fashion that, according to AIA/ALA judges, created a library that "shows a consistency in design elements, materials, and detailing inside and out."

Louisiana

Work Continues on Tulane University Library Renovations

The Howard-Tilton Memorial Library at Tulane University embarked on an ambitious, multi-phase project in April 2002 designed to improve physical access to the collections. The first phase, commonly referred to as the Dewey Project, began with the reclassification from Dewey Decimal to the Library of Congress system of all currently received journals. The reclassification of these 1,000 journal titles is scheduled for completion in early 2004. The Dewey Project also aims to reclassify approximately 20,000 Dewey Decimal books that have circulated at least twice in the past decade, as well as books and serials with heavy internal use as identified by faculty and library bibliographers. The reclassification project is scheduled to run through April 2005. In the second phase of the project, materials remaining in Dewey Decimal have been relocated to the Tulane University Libraries Off-site Depository (TULOD), located several minutes from campus. This leased facility, which was renovated between September 2002 and May 2003, employs state-of-the-art air-conditioning and humidity control to protect this older collection from the New Orleans elements. The move of approximately 325,000 volumes was completed over a two-month period between May and July 2003. The third phase of the project is the rearrangement of the Howard-Tilton Memorial Library stacks. This rearrangement was scheduled for completion late 2003.

Cajun/Creole Music Collection Grows at Dupré Library

The University of Louisiana at Lafayette Edith Garland Dupré Library has been awarded a Louisiana Board of Regents Traditional Enhancement Grant in the amount of $90,487. The project, "To Preserve Cultures and Nurture Generations: Building a Collection of Cajun and Creole Music at the University Library," will use grant funds to acquire commercial recordings of Cajun, Creole, zydeco and swamp pop music. Equipment for listening and archival purposes will also be purchased. Project directors are Sandy Himel, Reference and Government Information Librarian; Jean Kiesel, Louisiana Room Librarian; Bruce Turner, Head of Archives and Special Collections; Lance Chance, Systems Coordinator; and Barry Ancelet, Head of the Department of Modern Languages at UL Lafayette.

LOUISiana Union Catalog Now Available

LOUIS, The Louisiana Library Network, recently unveiled its new "LOUISiana Union Catalog" to the public at <http://search.louislibraries.org>. The LOUISiana Union Catalog is composed of separate databases using the Z39.50 protocol to search them simultaneously and bring back a list which summarizes the search results. The LOUISiana Union Catalog will enable anyone in the world to search across one, several, or all Louisiana academic library catalogs listed on the Web2 search page. The next release of Web2 will allow users to search Sirsi Unicorn sites using the "native" search indexes of the target catalog. The Louisiana Library Network combines the resources of Louisiana's public and private academic libraries, along with a centralized support staff located on the LSU campus, to produce a dynamic library consortium. For more information go to <http://appl006.lsu.edu/ocswweb/louishome.nsf/index>

North Carolina

NCSU Libraries Wins $270,000 NSF Grant

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has granted $270,000 to NC State University Libraries to develop InsideWood, an extensive, Internet-accessible wood anatomy research database. The funding for InsideWood covers work at both NCSU Libraries and the College of Natural Resources over a two-year span. InsideWood will build on existing databases, specimen collections, and photographic images at NC State and other institutions. The wood collection at NC State is the largest in the southeastern United States, outside of the Smithsonian Institution. In all, NC State holds 6,916 database records covering extant and fossil angiosperms, extant conifers, and hardwood fibers (these records are available on computer diskette but not over the Internet), 31,919 wood samples, 4,000 microscope slides, and 4,050 photomicrographs collected over the past 114 years. Project researchers will create a Web site with nonexclusive, open architecture to allow for long-term sustainability of the databases for wood identification.

South Carolina

War Poster Exhibit Opens at University of South Carolina

An exhibit entitled "Posters of the Great War" opened September 21 at the University of South Carolina's McKissick Museum. The exhibit features 35 dramatic posters from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Canada, and Austria, which were created by noted artists of the day to garner support for the war effort. The posters on exhibit were selected from a group of over 100 posters which comprise an important segment of the Thomas Cooper Library's Joseph M. Bruccoli Great War Collection. Major artists represented in the exhibit include Lucien Jonas from France, and Americans Howard Foster Christy, Harrison Fisher, James Montgomery Flagg, and Joseph Pennell. The Joseph M. Bruccoli Great War Collection was established in 1999 by Matthew J. and Arlyn Bruccoli in memory of Professor Bruccoli's father, who fought in the war. The collection now exceeds 3,000 items. Preparation of materials for the exhibit was funded largely through a donation from the Exxon Foundation, with matching donations by Edward Hallman, '50, through the Easterling-Hallman Foundation. A printed catalog/brochure, which is available at the exhibit site, was funded by the Bruccolis. A limited-edition keepsake was handprinted for the exhibit opening by Scott Gwara at the Maxcy Press. A Web version of the exhibit is available at:

<http://www.sc.edu/library/spcoll/hist/gwposters/posterintro.html>

USC mounts Exhibit on Computing

The University of South Carolina's Thomas Cooper Library has mounted a new web-exhibit on the history of computing. The exhibit is entitled "Charles Babbage (1791-1871): the Calculating Engine in the South Carolina College Library." The exhibit is accessible through the Rare Books home-page at <http://www.sc.edu/library/spcoll/babbage/intro.html>. The exhibit was curated by Patrick Scott, put in digital form by Zella Hilton, and edited for mounting by Amy Yarborough.

Tennessee

Tennessee State Library & Archives Celebrates Anniversary

A reception to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the formal opening of the present State Library and Archives building in 1953, and the 150th anniversary of the creation of the State Library in 1854, was held September 28 at the Tennessee State Library and Archives building in downtown Nashville. The program featured remarks by State Historian Walter Durham. Exhibits featured early Tennessee documents, the African-American experience, Tennessee in World War II, and the history and services of the State Library and Archives.

In 1953, the Tennessee State Library and Archives building, directly across from the capitol, was formally opened. The building was constructed as a memorial to the men and women of Tennessee who served in World War II. The floor of its central lobby, Memorial Hall, features the Great Seal of the State in marble. Military insignia for all branches of the U.S. military adorn the doors. It houses the largest and best collection of Tennessee resource material in the state, as well as a state-of-the-art preservation and photography lab, administrative offices of the statewide public libraries and local archives programs, and the Tennessee Regional Library for the Blind or Physically Handicapped. The Tennessee State Library was founded in 1854, five years after the Tennessee Historical Society. It began its life in the old Davidson County courthouse, but spent most of the next one hundred years in the State Capitol. In his 1845 plans of the Capitol, eminent architect William Strickland included a room for the original State Library. This exquisite room, opposite the Senate Chamber on the second story of the Capitol, has a frescoed ceiling, a spiral staircase and a bronze and brass chandelier. It served as the State Library for a century, and has since been restored to its original beauty and dignity.

West Virginia

Marshall University Receives Donation

Nelson S. Bond, veteran science fiction/fantasy writer, has donated his papers to Marshall University. Bond published 257 stories in 68 different magazines between 1935 and 1958 and over the past half-century wrote 7 books of short fiction. His stories have appeared in more than 100 anthologies. Nelson is possibly best known, however, for his radio and television scripts. During the 1943-44 radio season, he wrote 46 half-hour crime dramas for ABC's Hot Copy, plus a smattering of scripts for The Dr. Christian Show, Author's Playhouse and Curtain Time. In subsequent years he would write scripts for The Black Book, Ford Theatre, Make Believe Time, The Sheriff Show, Mystery on the Air, Dimension X, Mollie Mystery Theatre, Escape, and other classic radio shows. In 1946 his script on Mr. Mergenthwirker's Lobbllies became the first play ever aired over a television network. And, in his 95th year, he continues to write. He recently published a book entitled The Far Side of Nowhere and is completing work on another monograph, Other Worlds Than Ours, due for publication in 2004. Nelson Bond is a graduate of Marshall University (class of 1935).

Morna J. M. Gerrard recently was promoted to the position of Women's Collections/Processing Archivist at Georgia State University Library. She has worked at the University Libraries since 1999, most recently as Archival Associate.

Gerrard obtained an M.L.I.S. from Clark Atlanta University (2003), and an M.A. in history from Edinburgh University, Scotland (1989). Her professional memberships include the Academy of Certified Archivists, the Society of American Archivists, and the American Library Association.

After fifteen years as leader of Emory Libraries, Joan Gotwals retired as vice provost and director of libraries in August 2003. Gotwals led the library to national recognition for its major research collections, inviting physical facilities (including a major addition to the central library, a new Music and Media Library, a Mathematics and Science Library, and the renovation of a grand reading room), and innovations in digital services. She has seen the libraries' holdings in Emory's Special Collections dramatically increase in the areas of modern English language literature and African-American collections and become recognized as among the finest in the world. Prior to coming to Emory, Gotwals spent 26 years in the library system of the University of Pennsylvania, where she earned bachelors and master's degrees, and a Ph.D. in political science. She became Deputy Director of Libraries in 1981.

Jill Grogg is the new Assistant Professor/Serials Librarian at the Mississippi State University Libraries. Grogg was previously an instructional services librarian at MSU. She received a MSIS from the University of Tennessee and a Master of Arts in English from the University of Mississippi.

Rebecca L. Hamilton (pictured above on right) of Baton Rouge has been appointed as Associate State Librarian at the State Library of Louisiana. Hamilton oversees the State Library's development division, which provides leadership and management assistance to the state's 65 public library systems and manages state and federal grants to public libraries. She succeeded Gary Rolstad, who retired after 11 years as Associate State Librarian. Hamilton served as Director of the St. Mary Parish Library for the past two years. She was previously employed as Assistant Director of the Audubon Regional Library, which serves West Feliciana, East Feliciana and St. Helena parishes; the Terrebonne Parish Library; and the St. Mary Parish Library. Prior to this position, Hamilton was a library associate at the West Baton Rouge Parish Library.

Becky Hebert joined the National Network of Libraries of Medicine (NN/LM) Southeastern/Atlantic Region as the Specific Populations Coordinator in September, 2003. The mission of the National Network of Libraries of Medicine (NN/LM) is to advance the progress of medicine and improve public health by providing all U.S. health professionals equal access to biomedical information and by improving the public's access to health information. Becky most recently was the systems librarian for the Ascension Parish Library in Louisiana.

Jake J. Houle recently was hired as Public Relations Specialist at Georgia State University Library. Houle has served the library in that capacity on a temporary basis since April, 2003. Previously, he was Assistant Director of Public Relations at William Mitchell College of Law, St. Paul, Minn. Houle obtained a bachelor's degree in 1996 from Macalester College, St. Paul.

Louisiana State Librarian Thomas F. Jaques received the 2003 Outstanding Alumnus Award from the Louisiana State University School of Library and Information Science. The award was presented at the annual banquet of the Beta Zeta Chapter of Beta Phi Mu. Pictured below are (left to right) Dr. Michael Carpenter, faculty adviser for the group; Jaques; Dr. Beth Paskoff, dean of the LSU School of Library and Information Science; and Dr. Robert S. Martin, director of the Institute of Museum and Library Services, who was the featured speaker. Jaques has served as State Librarian for the past 28 years. Under his leadership, the State Library initiated the nation's first statewide automated database and interlibrary loan network on laser disc, which was recently upgraded to a web-based system. Through his efforts to secure telecommunications discounts for libraries through the Public Service Commission, Louisiana was the first state to provide free Internet access to patrons at every public library. Jaques initiated a program of state aid to public libraries and implemented a statewide delivery system for the interlibrary loan system.

“Assessment in Libraries: Practical Approaches for Creating a Continuous Assessment Environment”

When: Friday, June 25, 2004

Sponsor: SELA and FACRL (Florida Chapter of the Association of College and Research Libraries)

Why: This popular one-day workshop develops the concepts of creating workable assessment plans based upon national standards and an institution's individual mission statement.

Presented by

* Dr. Bill Nelson, Library Director at Augusta State University

* Dr. Bob Fernekes, Information Services Librarian at Georgia Southern University

The presenters have served on the ACRL College Libraries Section (CLS) Standards Committee, which Dr. Nelson currently chairs. Both have been appointed to the new ACRL College and Research Libraries Standards Task Force, where the CLS, ULS, and CJCLS sections are working together for a common set of standards for all academic libraries. Nelson and Fernekes have also co-authored a text on the subject, titled Standards and Assessment for Academic Libraries: A Workbook (ACRL, 2002).

Details will be posted on the SELA website <http://sela.lib.ucf.edu/> as they come available. Look for complete information in the spring issue of The Southeastern Librarian.

Ginny Frankenthaler Memorial Scholarship in Library Science

The Ginny Frankenthaler Memorial Scholarship in Library Science is made possible through the generosity of The Frankenthaler Memorial Fund, Inc. Mrs. Frankenthaler believed that our free library system is the basis for a good life and that the greatest gifts a human being can have are good memories and education, both of which are supplied free by our public library system.

The purpose of the scholarship is to recruit beginning professional librarians who possess potential for leadership and commitment to service in libraries in the Southeastern United States (see below).¹ The scholarship provides financial assistance toward completion of the graduate degree in library science from an institution accredited by the American Library Association.

The $2,000 scholarship is awarded annually. The recipient of the scholarship is notified in June with funding to begin with the fall school term. The scholarship will be paid to the recipient in equal installments at the beginning of each term of the school year. The presentation of the scholarship award is made at the Biennial Southeastern Library Association Conference.

To apply for the scholarship, submit to the Committee Chair:

1. Official application form (see following page – feel free to photocopy)
2. Letter of acceptance from a library school accredited by the American Library Association
3. Three letters of reference sent directly by the individuals to the chair of the committee; If possible, these persons should include: 1) a professor under whom you have studied, 2) a former employer, preferably a librarian, and 3) any person who can attest to your professional or academic ability
4. Official transcripts of all academic work sent directly from each institution of higher education to the chair of the committee

The recipient of the scholarship must:

1. Be a graduate of an accredited college or university or completing the senior year at such an institution
2. Be accepted as a student in a degree program accredited by the American Library Association
3. Be ready to begin the program of study no later than the fall term of the year in which the scholarship is awarded
4. Indicate the intention to complete degree requirements within three years. If the degree is not completed in this length of time, the money awarded must be returned with interest.
5. Maintain a B grade point average throughout the program and submit grade reports to the committee chair at the end of each term
6. Commit to working for a minimum of one year after graduation in a school, public or academic library in states that are included in the Southeastern Library Association¹. If, after graduation, the recipient does not work for one year in a school, public or academic library in one of the states listed, the recipient must pay back the amount of the scholarship, including interest. Repayment must be made within a two-year period.

All applications are due by the deadline of May 1, 2004. See the application form following. Selection will be based on the application and supporting documents. Factors that will be considered in making the award include academic excellence, potential for leadership, commitment to library service, and financial need. Other considerations being equal, residents of Liberty County, Georgia or Southeastern Georgia will be given preference. Mrs. Frankenthaler was a native of Liberty County Georgia. Members of the Frankenthaler family are ineligible to receive scholarships.

Nominations Sought for SELA Honorary Membership

The SELA Honorary Membership Committee is accepting nominations for honorary membership in the Southeastern Library Association. This designation is conferred upon living individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the Association or to library development in the Southeast.

Criteria:

1. Honorary membership should be conferred for significant contributions to librarianship in the Southeast. The honor:
 - a. May recognize persons elected to leadership positions in the Association
 - b. May recognize persons who have made other contributions to librarianship in the region.
 - c. Should be based upon regional rather than state or local contributions to the profession.
2. The designation should recognize the contribution of an individual per se, rather than an individual representing the accomplishments of many.
3. The person should be of such caliber as to reflect honor upon SELA by this designation.
4. Honorary membership should be conferred as a result of a contribution of more than passing importance and local or limited achievement. It should not be conferred because of momentary enthusiasm.
5. The person may be a librarian or a person in a related field.
6. Only a living person should be considered for honorary membership.
7. No more than five honorary memberships should be awarded in any biennium.
8. Membership entitles the recipient to a life membership in the Association, with no further payment of dues.
9. Should no qualified individual be nominated or approved by the committee no award will be made.
10. The person making the nomination must be a member of SELA, but the nominee need not be.

Submit nominations along with any supporting biographical material, to any member of the Honorary Membership Committee by April 24, 2004.

Solinet Launches New Training Catalog

SOLINET has redesigned its print catalog so that it informs the readers of everything available to them – but in less space – and points them to the “Workshop” section of the SOLINET website for more detailed information. This launch is the first of SOLINET’s efforts to distribute information more affordably and with fewer consequences to the environment while retaining the familiarity and usefulness of print. For more information go to http://www.solinet.net/workshops/workshops_home.cfm

ASERL, SOLINET, and HBCU Library Alliance Co-Host National Diversity Conference

The fourth National Diversity in Libraries Conference will be May 4 and 5, 2004, in Midtown Atlanta. This conference is co-sponsored by the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries (ASERL), the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), the Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) Library Alliance, and the Association of Research Libraries (ARL), and will serve as a pre-conference for SOLINET’s 2004 Annual Conference. The Diversity Conference will feature speakers and discussions designed to foster improved diversity within a broad range of libraries, including large research libraries, small and mid-sized college libraries, and public libraries. The agenda will examine two main issues: how to promote diversity among library staffing, and how to develop collections that reflect the experiences of a diverse community.

More information about the conference can be found at www.librarydiversity.org

SOLINET and HBCU Receive Grant

SOLINET and the HBCU Library Alliance have received a $160,000 grant from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation for a collaborative project to assess needs and develop a program to increase the effectiveness and visibility of libraries at the nation’s Historically Black Colleges and Universities. The 12-month project will promote the role of the librarian on each campus and advocate for total integration of libraries into campus programs for teaching and learning.

HBCU libraries serve as unique and indispensable gatekeepers for history, culture, and the African-American experience. Created by the deans and directors of these libraries after an historic meeting in October 2002, the Alliance seeks to ensure excellence in HBCU libraries through the development, coordination, and promotion of programs and activities to enhance members’ collections and services. The photo below was taken at this groundbreaking conference. Current Steering Committee members are Loretta O’Brien-Parham, Director of the Harvey Library at Hampton University, VA; Janice Franklin, Director of the Library and Learning Resource Center at Alabama State University; Tommy Holton, Dean of Libraries at Dillard University, LA; Emma Bradford Perry, Dean of Libraries at Southern University and A&M College, LA; and Elsie Stephens Weatherington, Dean of Library and Technology Services at Virginia State University.

Are You Looking for the Perfect Venue to Present and Publish?

New Voices is an opportunity for new librarians to present their ideas and perspectives on current library issues. This program is sponsored by the University and College Library Section of the Southeastern Library Association.

What: Papers to be presented at the 2004 Southeastern Library Association conference, followed by publication in The Southeastern Librarian.

Who: Professionally employed librarians with less than 5 years of experience. Must be able to attend and present paper at the next SELA Conference.

When: November 9 - 13, 2004. Where: Westin Charlotte Hotel, Charlotte, N.C.

Paper Submission Deadline: March 20, 2004

Please submit your paper and/or questions to Sarah J. Hammill at hammills@fiu.edu
